SOCIETY EDITOR.

To chronicle society's happenings in June is usually to record the travails of the local fashionable world, but this season there are many who are still in town enjoying the summer-time pleasures. In July a more general exodus will begin for the Pacific coast, with the Panama-Pacific exposition as a lure will attract a large contingent from Arizona as from other parts of the world. And California must offer unusual attractions, for it does not begin to be the resort for Phoenixians that it was a few years ago. Except for the exposition, there would be but few traveling coastwards this summer. As it is, a few weeks' vacation will take the place of the former two or three months away from home. The hot weather amusements have so multiplied that it is anything but a bore to remain in Phoenix, and the northern mountain camps are ideal for those seeking rest and quiet.

Speaking of travel brings to mind an absentee who has in view a journey home early in the autumn. Miss Helen Ely, the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sims Ely, who has been greatly missed in the two years she has been in New York, will pass the winter season here. Miss Ely has won quite an enviable reputation as an illustrator and is at present associated with a well known eastern syndicate.

CLUB NOTES

Official Organ State Federation of Clubs

The most interesting and necessary figure in clubdom today is the young woman. This is the message that Mrs. Percy Penneyhacker, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs gives to the various club presidents and in undertaking extension work urges them to follow out the scheme of the general federation by endeavoring to add to its membership the clubs composed of young women whose new ideas and progressive spirit will give the movement an impetus. In Phoenix recently there was established the ideal club described by the National president. Its organizer, Miss Eugenie Glascock, is its president and the pretty eighteen year old president of the club has written a special article for The Republican giving a brief sketch of the organization.

Miss Glascock is the daughter of Mrs. W. C. Glascock, a well known club woman particularly prominent in the rural clubs—the Ramona and the Orangevale Improvement. She has encouraged her daughter's interest, but the general plan has been Miss Glascock's own. It was her idea to bring together the young folks of the neighborhood to meet fortnightly for study and social advantages. Of this she speaks in her paper which follows:

THE GIRLS SELF IMPROVEMENT CLUB

By Eugenia Glascock
As president of the Girls Self Improvement Club, I have been asked to write and tell all about it. I will try to do so, but being very inexperienced, this being my first connection with club work I shall try to do the best I can and trust that you will criticize my efforts kindly.

This club is now in its early infancy but we are hoping that it will continue to grow and will develop into an organization of which we shall be proud.

For a long time I felt the need of a girls club—a common meeting ground wherein we might become better acquainted with others—might get into touch with others on a broad plane of comradeship—I saw I felt that need but it was rather vague and it never found a voice until the big idea came to me and I found that others had the same feeling.

Many of us, when we are young get the impression that life is for the express purpose of having a grand good time, and that is about all. It is true, perfectly true that we are due a grand good time—but there are so many other things that we can get out of living that will mean more to us, especially if they are combined well. I am sure we all like a good time, and perhaps even a few will agree with Burns—"But pleasures are like poppies spread. You seize the flower, its bloom is shed; Or like the snow falls in the river, A moment white—then melts forever; Or like the borealis race, That flit ere you can point their place. Or like the rainbow's lovely form, Evanishing amid the storm—Nae man can better time or tide. It is the main purpose of our club to combine pleasures with the more serious interests of life. It is our intention to make this club a permanent organization. As our club is not confined to any particular district we have plenty of room to grow. As many of our members are school girls it may be that we shall have to disband during the school term. If we find that we are unable to continue our meetings we shall do so, with the intention of reuniting the following summer.

As the summers here are usually rather empty and dull, it is our purpose to keep up the active interest of the girls and to fill the vacation time with profitable, learning, wholesome fun and general enjoyment.

Have been asked to specify why girls should belong to a club. Club life tends to bring forth the best that is in a girl. It usually helps her to see her little selfishnesses, petty jealousies and other bad little traits, which if allowed to develop and become a part of her character will be a serious matter later on in life. The impressions and habits and ambitions of our youth all go to make up our character. The life of club work tends to make the girl more broadminded and tolerant and to pull out the weeds growing into her character, which hitherto had never been recipient of any attention. It should make the girl free from snobbishness. Please allow me to quote Burns again:

"O wad some power the giftie give us,
To see ourselves as others see us!
To see frae man's a blunder free us,
An' foolish notion;
What airs in dress and gait wad lease us,
An' ev'n devotion!"

In the friendly intimacy of association with many girls in a club where all are interested in improving themselves and each other, a girl's finest self is brought out, her highest hopes and ambitions are displayed and she is not given a chance to become narrow.

In a club a girl comes in contact with persons, ideas, and interests that are all new to her of to which she had never given much thought heretofore. The really big thing of the outside world should hold her interest, but the homely little every day things that all go to make up our lives should not escape her. It is our wish to cultivate that broadness of spirit and power of human kindness and sympathy, that greatness of mind and bigness of her to which make the possessor beloved by all who come in touch with her. One way we have of promoting this is by what we term our "Book and Magazine Exchange." Each girl is to take a few interesting books and magazines to the meeting, here they are to be exchanged with all the other girls to be read during the following fortnight. By this means we will receive the benefit of many good books and magazines which otherwise we would miss unless we got them from the library.

Let us pause a minute and think of some of the many things in which the Woman's club have had great influence—the effecting of the moral "clean-ups" in the cities, the making of some of our best laws, the fights against child labor, sweatshops, minimum wages for working girls, social evils, they have established good

Concerning "Underdashery"

Some men tried Union Suits when they first came out, didn't like them, and have never tried them since.

These men don't give manufacturers much credit for ingenuity and progressiveness when they imagine that union suits are the same as they were ten years ago, or even two years ago, for that matter. We have some new ideas in union suits that make enthusiasts of the most prejudiced. They are the perfected under garment.

We especially recommend them for hot weather. They have more respect for your feelings than the other kind.

Wilson Bros. "Klosed-Krotch" Union Suits represent the maximum in value and comfort—$1.00, $1.50, $2.50 and $3.00 the suit.

sanitation boards, and oh, so many, many worthy activities have had a woman's firm hand at the steering wheel, so to speak.

So then is there always something—something, however small—in which we girls can progress and do our "wee bit of good,"—however homely or trifling or unpleasant, it may seem to us, we must try to think beautifully about it. It is so hard to think beautiful thoughts about things which are distasteful to us—but, Oh, the nice warm sense of satisfaction that comes when the beautiful has triumphed over the sordid.

We are planning many good things in our club and our outlook at the present time is far from being dull or prosy. We are all, I think, "musical" and a few of us are musicians. Among whom is our vice-president, her talk on the subject of Music, at a recent meeting was more than interesting.

We are planning entertainments for the benefit of our friends, and we are planning picnics, luncheons and interesting lectures. We have a live enthusiastic bunch of workers and as we continue onward our star of hope grows brighter.

As our club grows and we become more experienced in club life, perhaps I may some time be able to write a better article about it and tell you what we have done rather than what we are planning to do.

Since the organizing of our club, I have been told that the Girls club idea is expanding, and movements are on foot for the organization of other girls clubs. I hope this movement will continue, and that in the near future we will have a number of live girls' clubs. I should like to help the girls in the different localities to start clubs, for I am sure the girls clubs will be the means of closer union and a greater kindred spirit of companionship among all girls.

Is closing I will add a little verse which appeals to me as expressing the right sentiment for all our clubs:

"Desire not to live long
But to live well;
How long we live,
Not years, but actions tell."

Mrs. Henry D. Ross, president of the Arizona Federation of Women's clubs is leaving shortly for the Pacific coast for a much needed rest after a strenuous season of club work. Through The Republican, the official organ of the state federation, Mrs. Ross addresses the clubwomen through out the state as follows:

My Dear Friends:
I am leaving the state for a lengthy and much needed vacation. As I shall be continuously on the move my address will be unsettled. However, a letter addressed to my Phoenix house will always reach me and I shall be glad to hear from any of you during the summer and shall be interested in your doings. Vacation time is splendid for reflecting and planning for the next season's active duties. I hope the various department chairmen will
